Dear Bob:

It has been far too long. I still remember you with much affection and hope life and the profession have been good to you.

Life for me has been somewhat more relaxed. The great thrust has been in Nicola's career. She is a success. Finally. She played the big casino and went out as a developer. Her, and her partners, condominium came through last year. So now she is financial and is established.

I still enjoy remembering your statement that unless you are $50,000-ready-cash, you are not in the race. I remember a superintendent leaving the room because he thought that measure outlandish -we school people are so naive, plus they do not want us as minorities to awaken them. I still wish we could find an excuse to work together again.

I have been on a number of Search Committees and am now involved in a finding a superintendent for San Francisco. Hopefully we can get a Hispanic or a Black. I hope you are continuing with your 'Language Problem and Public Policy'. It is an idea whose time is now for U.S.

This letter is my way of keeping in touch. Let us hear from you. Nicola's partners (one has a very deep pocket) are looking at developments in Mexico, Dominican Republic, and the Carribean. These make me think of you. And like you, I have learned, but late in life, that I should use the academic to launch and support activities in the private sector where the money is!

Lets keep in touch.

With admiration and affection,
